Finding an orphaned colt helps Paul and Maureen deal with their loss, and they soon discover that little Sea Star needs them just as much as they need him. This classic story from Newbery Award–winning author Marguerite Henry features the original text and illustrations in a gorgeous collectible hardcover edition.

Such a lovely Marguerite Henry horse story for kids 6-10 or so! I read these 50 years ago in 25-cent book club paperbacks and am now buying these great hardcover copies for my 7-year-old granddaughter who is horse crazy. She has read Justin Morgan Has a Horse and is now on Misty. These are so terrific; all kids should read them. I have studied children's literature all my life, and M. Henry is tops in the horse fiction field after all these years. Even if the grandfathers' speech may seem a little quaint to modern ears, the story is so worthwhile, and the way those kids love those horses is so real, and the horse behavior is so true, that you are transported as a reader into their world. A bonus is the little explanation in each book about the beginnings of the horse colony at Assateague Island, and the history of the pony penning days. Author Henry notes in each book, by the way, that all characters in the book are real, and she lists them on an inside page, thanking them all! One fly in the ointment is a dating issue (1949), and that is the discrepancy of the two juvenile characters, who are brother and sister. They act equally and are treated equally--except in the pony penning events, in which girls are not allowed to compete. I assume that is no longer the case, but that occurrence would need to be discussed with young readers. Overall, a gem of a book for animal story lovers, horse lovers in particular, and, really, anyone who loves a good story.
